授業スケジュール・内容 In the first weeks of the semester, students will learn about the components of a paragraph and how to successfully write one using a topic sentence, supporting sentences and a concluding sentence. Students will practice writing paragraphs throughout the semester using a process approach which will help them how to choose topics that are interesting and broad enough to write about. Students will also learn how to constructively peer evaluate written work. In class there will be ongoing discussion about how to write well and how to evaluate work.
