

2011年度

科目名	SpeakingⅢ-1
担当教員	ジョーンズ
配当	英語3		コード	42045
開期	前期	講時	木曜日2限	単位数 1
授業テーマ	Students will improve their real-world English speaking skills for a variety of situations through structured and unstructured activities.
目的と概要	Students should learn how to give in-depth descriptions of facts and situations. They should be able to give coherent opinions, and defend these opinions in discussions or when asked. Business skills will be practiced such as using telephones, making travel arrangements, practicing interviewing for jobs, giving professional presentations, and so forth. They need to be able to be flexible in conversations and be able to easily engage in non-scripted conversations, and be able to switch from formal or informal speaking styles.
成績評価法	Students will be graded on smooth practiced presentations, being able to initiate and be flexible in conversations, and class participation. Both quantity and quality of conversations and presentations will be assessed. Written homework will occasionally be necessary. Attendance is necessary to participate in activities and bring skills to a high level. Class participation in non-graded activities will be 25% of the final grade; graded presentations/activities, 75%.
テキスト	No text
参考書	A good Japanese-English dictionary is necessary
履修に当たっての注意・助言/準備学習	Students are expected to prepare out of class for presentations, though practice time will be given in class. Homework is to be ready before class. Absent students are responsible for finding out what is required for the next class.
講義計画
Semester 1
The choice of topics will depend on students' needs, abilities, and previous experience. The following topics and skills will probably be practiced. Other topics and situations can be added at the teacher's and students' discretion. The number of weeks devoted to each topic will depend on students' needs and progress.
Making travel arrangements Telephone skills including taking messages Describing people, objects or situations Narrating experiences Explaining concepts Asking questions to obtain information Job interview practice Summarizing and reporting Professional speech and presentation practice Higher level conversation skills including disagreeing, expressing opinions, etc.				