

2011年度

科目名	Writing II-1
担当教員	ジョーンズ
配当	英語2(2121)			コード	43031
開期	前期	講時	木曜日3限	単位数	1
授業テーマ	This course will develop students' writing skills by building on what they learned in Writing I.
目的と概要	The aims of this course are to develop students' writing abilities to a high degree by having them compose more complicated compositions on a variety of topics and formats, such as stories、descriptions、reports、opinion pieces、resumes、and so on. Using more complex grammar、sentence、and topic forms、as well as new and varied vocabulary will be stressed. If review of grammar、vocabulary (i.e. prepositions)、and format is necessary、class time will be given to practice and short tests.
成績評価法	Students will be graded on class work、homework and several polished writing assignments. Students will receive 2 grades for the longer assignments: one for spelling、format、grammar、etc.、and the other for effort、ideas and creativity. Tests、homework、in-class activities are 25% of the final grade; longer assignments are 75%. Late assignments receive reduced points.
テキスト	Success with College Writing: from Paragraph to Essay. by D Zemach & L Rumisek
参考書	A Japanese-English dictionary will be useful for this class.
履修に当たっ ての注意・助言 /準備学習	Students are expected to have finished assignments/homework by the next class. Students are also expected to hand in assignments that are neat、proofed、and with a noticeable absence of junior-high-school mistakes. Absent students are responsible for finding out what work is due for the next class.
講義計画
The following syllabus may change、depending on students' needs and levels.
Semester 1:
Weeks 1-3	Review of basics: for example、paragraphing and topic sentences Getting ideas Proof reading and editing
Weeks 4-6	Structuring an essay Introductions and conclusions
Weeks 7-9	How to organize information: unity and coherence
Weeks 10-12	Writing descriptions
Weeks 13-15	Describing a process				