

2011年度

科目名	Writing III-2
担当教員	ジョーンズ
配当	英語3		コード	44048
開期	後期	講時	木曜日4限	単位数	1
授業テーマ	Students will improve writing skills to a high level through a variety of topics and writing styles.
目的と概要	The aims of this course are for students 1) to learn more about different styles of writing for different purposes and audiences, 2) to improve basic skills such as description, comparison, narrative, etc., 3) to develop flexibility and creativity, 4) to learn more about problems of translating Japanese ideas into English, and 5) to prepare for writing high level research papers.
成績評価法	Students will be graded on a variety of assignments of various lengths. Depending of need, grammar points will be reviewed and tested. For most assignments, 2 grades will be given: one for format, grammar, appropriateness of style, and the second for ideas, thinking and creativity. Tests, homework, and in-class activities will be 25% of the final grade; longer assignments will be 75%.
テキスト	Effective Academic Writing 2. by Alice Savage & Patricia Mayer
参考書	A good Japanese-English dictionary with a thesaurus
履修に当たっ ての注意・助言 /準備学習	Students are expected to have finished assignments before the next class. They are expected to hand in thoughtful, neat and proofed assignments. Taking time to think about the assignments and then correcting it is necessary for good writing. It is expected that students give adequate time to homework assignments.
講義計画
Semester 2
As in the first semester、 the topics here are subject to change as needed.
Weeks:
1 - 3 Narratives/stories with self-expression emphasized
4 - 6 Opinions and supporting arguments
7 - 9 Comparing and contrasting
10 - 13 Cause and effect essays
14 Writing summaries
15 Review					